of War, had made her farwell appearance as a soldier before a military gathering the other night at the Walter Reed Hospital, and I found it very depressing to think that Mrs. Baker, who had sung "The Goodbye" for the soldiers and sailors hereabouts for years now, won't be here any more to sing for them. After Mrs. Baker sang her closing number, she spoke.

"Everything to me of late seems to have an air of finality," she said. "On my way here tonight I could not help but feel that it was my last appearance before you. Tonight I am going to sing one more song, for the last time I will ever sing before soldiers. I will sing 'Uncle Sam' that I have sung so many times. I want you men to know that you have helped me to make the prophecy of the song come true." The cabinet circle in its last days had a wedding in its midst—Miss Mary Wilson, daughter of the Secretary of Labor, William B. Wilson, was the bride. It took place Thursday and was a very quiet affair. The lucky bridegroom was Charles D. Strohecker, formerly of Charlotte, N. C. and Roanoke, Va., but now of this city. She is Secretary Wilson's second daughter. The wedding was an extremely quiet informal affair and took place in Rockville at the rectory of the Presbyterian Church. The bride lost her mother and sister, but her father gave her in marriage, but there were no attendants.

The cabinet figures prominently in the many many dinner parties of the week. Every night there were dinners galore. The Vice President and Mrs. Marshall were the honor guests at at least one.

The Marshalls also gave a large dinner, but if I should attempt to enumerate the dinners and luncheons—not to mention the tea parties—of the last week, I would not reach the end for ages. And the bride parties—bridge seems to be getting to be a craze almost like it used to be some years ago. I heard of more bridge parties lately and I suppose there are many I haven't heard of, while one society woman told me hardly a day went by but what she was invited to a tea party—by Mrs. William Hughes, wife of the late Senator from New Jersey entertained at a luncheon and bridge party last week. Mrs. Peyton Russell gave a party Friday in compliment to Mrs. Benedict Cobb who is staying at the Shoreham and who gave a small bridge herself there Wednesday. Mrs. Robert H. C. Kelton was hostess at a bridge followed by tea one afternoon last week in compliment to her mother, Mrs. George E. Willis's birthday anniversary. The Misses Sedgely were hostesses at a bridge party yesterday afternoon. The Misses Sedgely gave quite a large bridge party—some nine tables or more—last Monday afternoon, with additional guests asked for tea. Mrs. Charles Nelson Riker entertained a group of young people at bridge one afternoon; Mrs. Ryan Devereux will give a bridge party Tuesday afternoon, and there are many more.

An interesting engagement of the week was that of Miss Grace Averill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lloyd Averill to Stewart L. Wirgman, son of Rev. Henry T. Wirgman, of Chevy Chase and D. C. They will be married in the spring at home and will reside in this city. Mr. Averill is superintendent of the Congressional Library. The Averills originally came from Pittsburg and belong to an old New York family, but have lived here about a quarter of a century. The bride is very pretty, a blonde.

MRS. FRANK BRIGHT HOSTESS TODAY.
Mrs. Frank S. Bright will be hostess at the director's reception at the Women's Club this afternoon, 5 to 7 o'clock.
The business and professional women's committee will have charge of the meeting on Wednesday evening at which William Clark Taylor, deputy register of wills, will speak on "Your Money and How to Invest It." Miss Adele M. Stewart, the first woman to be appointed a Federal bank examiner, will preside.
Mrs. Marie Manning Gash will read an original dialect story at the library talk on Saturday afternoon. Miss Alice M. Heaven will be chairman. The circulating library is now open every afternoon and Tuesday and Thursday evenings.

Miss Bess Schreiner is chairman of the committee on tickets for the benefit on February 14 at the Belasco Theater. A friendly rivalry has been established between the various committees which are to be credited with the amount of the tickets sold. The committee activities. Several theater parties have already been arranged for. Miss Sarah Pope Grogan being chairman of that committee. At its meeting on Tuesday evening the board organized a committee on public relief, with Mrs. William E. Chamberlin as chairman. It also directed that nominations in response to the request of the District Commissioners be forwarded for appointment by them on the committee to indorse District charities.

Mrs. Thomas F. Logan will be at home today at 4:30.
ENTERTAINMENT TO BE TEA FEATURE.
A feature of the card party and tea to be given by women's organizations of the District the afternoon of January 26 to raise funds for placing a woman's national memorial in the Capitol, will be a half hour of entertainment to be given by Mrs. David H. Kincheloe, wife of Representative Kincheloe, of Kentucky. Mrs. Kincheloe, who is known as one of Washington's most versatile entertainers, will give a program following the play at the card tables.

Generous contributions to the memorial fund by Mrs. Peter A. Drury and Mrs. Edmund J. Brennan, chairman of the committee in charge of the card party, have suggested to other women a means of giving a larger amount toward placing statues of the women pioneers in the Capitol than is possible by merely attending the card party. Twenty-six women's organizations of the District of Columbia will participate in the memorial ceremonies in the rotunda of the Capitol on February 15.

Three additional women have joined the committee for the card party to be held Wednesday afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock, in the spacious ballroom at headquarters of the National Woman's party, 14 Jackson place. The new members are Mrs. Carter Keene, Mrs. Robert Ellen and Mrs. Charles Shelton.

Tickets are obtainable from Mrs. Brennan, at the Harrington; from George Eastman, of Cleveland Park, and Mrs. George Harris, of Chevy Chase.
Thirty wives of Senators and Representatives are members of the committee, which will present to the
